

DÜSSELDORF SYM POSIUM ON DEC ISION NEURO
SCIENCE 7

D
S
D
N 18

düsseldorf symposium on decision neuroscience june 22nd 2018

10:40: Introduction

Tobias Kalenscher, Comparative Psychology,
Heinrich-Heine-University Düsseldorf

11:00: Why stimulating the brain is so stimulating

Damiaan Denys, Department of Psychiatry,
Academic Medical Center, Amsterdam, NL

12:00: The neurobiology of perceptual and value based decisions: a memorable connection

Michael Shadlen, Zuckerman Mind Brain Behavior Institute, Howard Hughes Medical Institute and Department of Neuroscience, Columbia University, USA

13:00: Lunch

14:00: Dopamine and decisions about cognitive control

Roshan Cools, Center for Cognitive Neuroimaging, Donders Institute, Nijmegen, NL

15:00: Coffee break

15:30: Livelihood transformation and resource sharing among the pastoral Maasai of Southern Kenya

Caroline Archambault, Leiden University College The Hague, NL, and Joost de Laat, Utrecht University, NL

Want to join?

Participation is free, but we ask all participants to register with the organizers. Please send an eMail to adam.schweda@hhu.de to register. Because space is limited, registration is binding, but can be cancelled up to 2 weeks before the symposium.

Location:

Adress Library OASE
Universitätsstraße 1
40225 Düsseldorf

Tram: Catch metro U71 / U73 / U83 or tram 704 (to Christophstraße / Uni Nord or Uni Ost) in front of Düsseldorf main station and exit at Uni-Kliniken.

Car: Free Parking available next to the mensa.

Taxi: Ask driver to take you to MNR-Klinik / Uni-Kliniken and he or she will drop you off right in front of the venue.

> go to maps.google.com

> type oase hhu

> get exact location

Any questions?

Write an eMail to adam.schweda@hhu.de. You will be informed about any changes after registration.

sponsored by

land NRW

comparative psychology